ROUNDTABLE

SCIENCE DIPLOMACY IN TIMES OF WAR

APRIL 7, 2022, 6:30-8:30 PM CEST

Friedrich-Alexander-Universität Erlangen-Nürnberg

The discussion will be broadcasted via Zoom and Youtube

Moderators

Prof. Maria Rentetzi, chair for Science, Technology and Gender Studies, Friedrich-Alexander-Universität Erlangen-Nürnberg
Dr. Matthew Adamson, Director of Academic and Student Affairs, McDaniel College Budapest

ROUNDTABLE

SCIENCE DIPLOMACY IN TIMES OF WAR

How should scientific institutions react to the war in Ukraine? Isolate Russia and exclude it from all scientific collaborations or "do business" as usual? The academic world is divided on this.

In a roundtable organized by Friedrich-Alexander-Universität Erlangen-Nürnberg, historians and philosophers of science and technology together with key science administrators and academics will analyze the role of science diplomacy in times of war, historically and today.

The event will be held in English, in cooperation with the EU-funded project InsSciDE– Inventing a Shared Science Diplomacy for Europe and the ERC Consolidator Grant research project HRP-IAEA.

PANEL MEMBERS

Prof. Emeritus Aristides Baltas, Philosopher of science, National Technical University of Athens, ex-minister of Culture and Sports of Greece and ex- minister of Culture, Education and Religious Affairs in Greece

Prof. Kate Brown, Thomas M. Siebel Distinguished Professor in History of Science, MIT

Prof. Susan Buck-Morss, The Jan Rock Zubrow Chair of Government, Cornell University and Distinguished Professor, Department of Political Science, Graduate Center of the City of New York

Vito Cecere, Director for Research and Academic Relations Policy, Department for Culture and Communications, Federal Foreign Office

Dr. Michael Harms, Deputy Secretary General DAAD

Prof. Joachim Hornegger, President- Friedrich-Alexander-Universität Erlangen-Nürnberg

Prof. Claudio Feijo, Technical University of Madrid, Senior Lecturer on Geopolitics of Technology at Spain's Diplomatic School